

“Nothing compares to the simple pleasure of riding a bike” JFK

Exhibition of a collection of images inspired by the words of John F. Kennedy and presented by Cyclist.ie & WW + CC.

April 25th - May 7th Index Gallery, Central Library, Waterford

This exhibition offers an alternative to the current dominant image of cycling as a sport or weekend hobby. “Everyday” or normalised cycling is for every day, for everybody, whether student, shopper, schoolchild, sightseer or simply, commuter.

In tandem with the exhibition, a Photography Competition on the same theme will run during April and selected images of everyday cycling in Waterford will join the exhibition.

We want to show how enjoyable riding a bike is, and how simple. No need for specialised clothing or bikes.

Cycling is a fast, cheap, healthy and enjoyable way to get around, whatever your age, gender or level of fitness.

Cyclist.ie members are welcome to launch on Wed April 27th at 6 pm at Central Library. Light refreshments served.
